Are you a fan of Incubus and/or live streaming events? Want to check out Brandon Boyd's vocal range live and in person from the comforts of your office space? How about hear a rendition of Drive from an art installation in West Hollywood? Did you answer yes to any of the above questions? If so, the alternative rock band from Calabasas and participatory media specialist Marc Scarpa have just the online destination for you.

Incubus HQ Live is what Scarpa calls a "participatory conversation by and with the fans of Incubus." That participatory conversation takes the form of a week-long, live streamed concert/art installation/internet-connected club house featuring impromptu live sets from the band, instructional clinics, and shout-outs from fans captured by on-the-wall, handheld, and Incubus-band-member-operated cameras.

Boyd said the goal of the project is to "provide an unprecedented level of access to Incubus." The creators of Incubus HQ Live have certainly accomplished that. The cameras from event started broadcasting to the web on June 30. For the last seven days they've streamed the action from the intimate and undisclosed LA location (which lucky fans snagged an invite to via Schedulicity) from 10AM to 6PM PST.
